

Thermal Hydro Gel Warning And Waiver Of Liability

Product is intended for use by qualified, professionally trained stunt personnel capable of determining safe and proper usage.

It is the responsibility of the user and purchaser to verify product is safe for use through controlled testing prior to final application.

User and purchaser acknowledge that fire stunts are inherently dangerous and may result in severe injury, death or property damage, regardless of proper or improper use of product.

All parties and entities involved in the manufacture or distribution of product make no specific claim warranty as to the effectiveness of product for any given user application.

User and purchaser agree that all parties and entities directly or indirectly involved in the manufacture or distribution of product shall be held harmless and free of all liability relating to the use of product, including but not limited to injury, death or property damage to the user, technical personnel, bystanders or any other person or property directly or indirectly involved in the use of product.

User . Purchaser

Date